

New Worlds Reading Initiative

New Worlds Reading is Florida's free program to help eligible students strengthen literacy skills, build at-home libraries, and encourage a lifelong love of reading. To be eligible, children must be in VPK and not making age-appropriate progress per state assessments or K-5 and not yet reading on grade level in a public or charter school.

The Florida legislature created New Worlds Reading in 2021 and appointed the UF Lastinger Center for Learning as the administrator. The program:

- Mails enrolled students a new, FREE book to build a personalized library based on their interests,
- Provides families with practical, supporting materials that build reading confidence and reinforce science of reading techniques, and
- Supports each student to successfully launch their reading skills and nurture a love of reading.

In addition to book delivery, New Worlds Reading provides:

- At-home literacy resources for caregivers to help children practice reading,
- Community engagement events with local and regional non-profits,
- Professional development for educators using New Worlds Reading books to strengthen the home and school connection

Florida families are loving the program.

"We enjoy the excitement of getting new books. He usually dives into a new book as soon as it arrives, without fighting!"

The UF Lastinger Center is a registered Scholarship Funding Organization (SFO) and is eligible to accept tax credit contributions to support the initiative. Under the New Worlds Reading Initiative, corporate taxpayers can make private monetary contributions to the UF Lastinger Center and receive a dollar-for-dollar tax credit against select Florida tax types.
